URGES RELENTLESS WARFARE

Statesman Who Would Hesitate to Use Every Available Instrument of Battle to Shorten War Should be Hanged, Says von Bethmann-Hollweg.

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, via London, Sept. 29.—Germany will persevere until victory is hers, the Reichstag was told yesterday by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the full text of his speech, which was published here today. The chancellor declared that this year's harvest has made Germany's position much more secure than was the case last year.

In his attack upon Great Britain he declared that that country was breaking one international law after another and was above all Germany's "most dangerous, heretofore and most obstinate enemy."

"A German statesman," he said, "who would hesitate to use against this enemy every available instrument of battle that would really shorten this war—such a statesman should be hanged."

Concluding his speech, the chancellor exclaimed:

"Germany will not be permitted to think of peace while her house is burning. She must first extinguish the fire."

After the chancellor had concluded the Reichstag adjourned until October 5.

GREEK WARSHIP DESTROYED

PHILADELPHIA, September 29.—The destruction of the revolutionary fleet of the Greek warship Hydra in the small hours of this morning has caused great excitement in this Greek port. The Hydra, anchored under the guns of the arsenal last night, was silently boarded at 3 o'clock this morning by a party of men in civilian dress. The loyalist officer, second in command, was aroused from his bunk and with pistols at his head was forced with other loyalist officers to embark in a rowboat. The commander being a Venizelist, readily surrendered to the boarders.

Two tugs were attacked by tow ropes to the ship and as noiselessly as possible she slipped her anchor chains and was drawn by the tug from the company of the other Greek men of war. The tugs towed her to Salamis Bay where the Allied warships are stationed.

WOMAN MURDER VICTIM

Fire Falls to Convent the Fact That She Had Been Killed.

By Associated Press.

MOULTONVIEW, N. H., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Frederick L. Small, wife of a Boston real estate broker, who was burned in a fire which destroyed the Small summer home at Lake Ossipee last night, was murdered, it was discovered today when her body was taken from the ruins. She had been beaten over the head and strangled by a rope around her neck.

The fire had gained headway before anyone was attracted to it and villagers arriving from a distance were unable to put it out.

Mr. Small, who had left the cottage on a business trip to Orono six hours before the fire was discovered, hurried back today to assist the police in their investigation. He said his wife was alone in the cottage when he departed.

Later, Small was placed under arrest and held pending instructions from the county solicitor.

11 NEW TEACHERS WILL MAKE THEIR BOW HERE MONDAY

School Resumes Then After
the Longest Vacation
in District.

NO SESSIONS IN FOUR MONTHS

Big Freshman Class Will Enter the High School, 140 Attending the Preliminary Conference Today Not Being All Who Will be Enrolled.

When the Connellsville public schools open on Monday, it will be after their longest summer vacation. Closing on June 2, four months will have intervened when the new school term begins Monday morning. Originally the 1916-17 term was to open on September 11, but the state health board's quarantine preventing children under 16 from congregating in public places became effective and the start was delayed nearly a month.

There will be 11 new faces in the ranks of the teachers on Monday, six in the high school faculty and five in the grades. The high school teachers are: John S. Oller, Wayneburg, Pa., physics; Arthur E. Woodhead, Lakewood, N. J., biology; Laura Kouka, Chester, N. J., history; Helen Humphrey, Pittsburg, English; Sallie R. McEwan, Pittsburg, Latin; Anne I. Reynolds, Reedsville, Pa., domestic science. Mr. Oller arrived in the city yesterday and Miss Reynolds has been on hand for some time. The other new teachers are expected to arrive today or tomorrow.

The new grade teachers are all from Connellsville or the immediate vicinity. They are: Catherine O'Connor, Grace Robinson, Emma Measter, Minerva Kaffer and Rosa Courtney. The high school faculty will meet with Principal B. B. Smith on Saturday afternoon. At the same time the grade teachers will meet with the principals at the respective buildings. The principals had a conference this afternoon with Superintendent S. P. Ashe.

Indications that there will be an especially large freshman class were strengthened this morning when about 140 boys and girls met at the high school for the first time and went through the schedule of regulations, thus familiarizing themselves with the class rooms and routine of school work before the opening. This number does not represent the entire strength of the freshman army, as there will be quite a number additional from out of town, as well as more from the city.

By Associated Press.

PORT MYERS, Fla., Sept. 29.—Bert Alderman and Jim Tucker, wanted for complicity in the robbery of the Homestead, Florida, bank and the killing of three posse men during the chase on the Florida coast after the robbery, were hiding on a small island in Chokoloskee Bay early today and their capture or death before night was regarded as certain.

The men have no boat but, according to Frank Rice, one of the bandits who was brought here last night and placed in jail, they are heavily armed and will fight to the end.

The Mexicans crossed to the command of Colonel Revel, a Carranza officer who with other de facto officials has assured General Bell that the incident will not be repeated.

Wounded Soldier Worn.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Among the many interesting changes that the war is bringing in the habits of Londoners is that the strong prejudice against clogs among the poor in some parts of the metropolis is giving way before necessity. The fact accentuates further the revolution in London's social habits, and it is due to the great increase in the cost of boots and shoes. Clogs are dear, too, but by only a fraction of the cost of other footwear.

RATE RAISE SUSPENDED

Commission to Investigate Proposed Boost on Export Iron and Steel.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Tariffs of railroads in the Middle West and East proposing increases of 7 and 8 cents per hundred pounds on iron and steel articles from Chicago, Pittsburg and other points to the Atlantic seaboard and to Gulf ports for export, were suspended today by the Interstate Commerce Commission until January 29, pending investigation.

The suspended tariff would affect a large volume of the shipments to European belligerents.

The proposed increases have been vigorously fought by shippers who contended they were without justification and an attempt by the carriers to take some of the profits of the iron and steel business. One company estimated that its loss under outstanding contracts if the advances became effective would be $100,000. The railroads claim that they had made a one-third reduction in the pass in iron and steel business to enable manufacturers to reach out for foreign business and that the roads are now proposing to restore rates to where they stood when exceptional conditions caused reduction.

The Pennsylvania railroad claims as one of its reasons for the increases that it has to enlarge its terminal facilities at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore to handle export trade at an outlay of $25,000,000 and that delivery to shipside is more expensive than to domestic consignees.

HEROIC FRENCH AVIATOR FALLS 10,000 FEET, YET ESCAPES WITH HIS LIFE

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Three German aeroplanes brought down in two minutes and 30 seconds by a stopwatch is the latest exploit of Second Lieutenant George Guynemer. Incidentally, Lieutenant Guynemer, who is known as "king of the aces," fell 10,000 feet, but escaped unhurt.

Guynemer went to the assistance of a comrade who was hard pressed by five German machines. He brought down two of them within 30 seconds and then, rising, overtook a third which he shot down two minutes later. He was looking for the remaining two German machines when a shell burst beneath him and stripped his left wing of his aeroplane of every stitch of its covering. He plunged giddily earthward.

"I gave myself up for lost," he said, "but after falling 5,000 feet I thought I would struggle all the same. The wind blew me over our lines and like a flash I had a picture of my funeral and all my good friends following the coffin. I continued to fall and the levers wouldn't budge. In vain I pushed and pulled to right and left. I made a last desperate effort, all to no purpose, and then I saw the field toward which I was dashing down.

OX ROAST AT THE MARIETTA FARM IS A GREAT SUCCESS

Mayor is Host to More Than 700 Men at His Proddy
Summer Home.

MANY POLITICIANS PRESENT

Leaders of Both Parties Mingle With Guests; Clay Pigeon Shoot a Big Feature, But There Are Many Other Attractions, Including Big Dinner.

About 700 men from all parts of Fayette and adjoining counties attended the ox roast and pigeon shoot at Mayor Rockwell Marietta's summer home near Murphy siding yesterday afternoon. It was by far the most successful of all the annual affairs of this character at the Marietta farm, both in point of attendance and possibilities for enjoyment. If any man didn't have a good time it was because he didn't feel like it.

An ox roasted in Chicago and shipped to Connellsville by express in a fireless cooker was the main item of the dinner which began at 1 o'clock and continued until 3 P. M. Late comers did not have to go hungry for there was plenty for all. The guests found something interesting all over the place. In the field squads of clay pigeon shooters were in competition all afternoon for the silver loving cup offered to those making the best scores. In the grove at the far end of the shooting ground were the lunch booths. There colored chefs served up delicious roast beef sandwiches all afternoon, after the regular dinner was over. It did not matter if showers of bird shot from stray shells sometimes came splattering down over a man's sandwich. Other booths with diversified amusement devices were scattered about the grove.

Down at the house, Kiefer's orchestra rendered a program of popular airs from a corner of the wide veranda. Card tables were there for those who did not participate in the other games. The greatest interest, however, was centered in the clay pigeon shooting.

Mayor Marietta was here, there and everywhere as host of the occasion and his sons, Harry, William H., Clarence B. and George A., were able assistants. There were nearly 170 automobiles parked about the shooting ground during the course of the afternoon.

The affair was a meeting place of county politicians of all parties. Former Democratic County Chairman Bruce F. Sterling was there for a short while in rather doleful conversation with some leading local Democrats. He left early.

Congressman Robert F. Hopwood renewed acquaintances among the crowds and made new friends. He was much pleased at the confidence of Connellsville Republicans in a Republican landslide for Hughes and the rest of the ticket in November. Judge J. C. Work lent his presence to the occasion. Ex-District Attorney S. Ray Shelby, County Treasurer George Orval Rush, Recorder of Deeds H. C. Kays, former Sheriff S. E. Frock and H. S. Dumbauld were among the other politicians present.

The party began to break up about 5 o'clock and the last guest had departed shortly after 6. They all agreed that they had had "some time."

The Donora squad won the loving cup offered for the best record, breaking 133 out of 125 birds. Each man shot at 25 pigeons and five men composed a squad. A Uniontown boy who was feeding the trap emerged from the covering during the afternoon with his forehead gashed from the blow of one of the clay birds. This broke and struck him between the eyes. His wound was dressed by Dr. T. R. Francis and he was taken home in an automobile after a collection had been taken up for him.

COURT ORDERS HANDLED DOWN

Youth Who Broke Parole Goes to Reform School; Man Must Finish Workhouse Term.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 29.—Five important orders were handed down at the opening of court this forenoon by Judge E. H. Reppert, disposing of several matters which have been pending before him. L. J. King, who was appointed collector of school taxes by the school directors of North Union township, petitioned the court to instruct him in the mandamus proceedings of James A. Griesman against the North Union township directors. An order was made by Judge Reppert, in which he said that in his opinion Mr. King was not an interested party, and the petition was denied.

Myers Broe, a local youth, was committed to the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon by order of Judge Reppert. Broe pleaded guilty at the June term of court to a charge of keeping a gambling house, and was paroled. After the court had learned that Broe had flagrantly violated the terms of his parole, a process was issued for his arrest a few days ago.

A petition was presented to Judge Reppert a short time ago, asking for the release from the Allegheny county workhouse of James Howell, who was convicted with William Howell of keeping a gambling house. It was alleged in the petition that Howell is suffering from tuberculosis. Dr. O. R. Altman, county medical inspector, was appointed by the court to make an examination of Howell. It was reported to the court that Howell has no organic trouble and no active symptoms of pulmonary tuberculosis, and that he has no physical ailments that his confinement would aggravate. In an order made by Judge Reppert the petition for his release was denied.

Felix Semanick of Lemont, accused by his wife of desertion and non-support, was directed by Judge Reppert to pay Susanna Semanick $8 per week, and furnish $300 bond for faithful compliance with the order of court. The hearing was held last July 18, when Semanick was directed to pay $1.50 per week.

An order was signed by Judge Reppert granting a charter to the Christian Church of Connellsville. The trustees are: Harbert C. Frisbee, E. T. Norton, Robert Norris, Walter P. Schenck and Dr. S. S. Stahl.

A verdict of $1,000 for the plaintiff was returned late yesterday in the case of Frank Curllis of Connellsville against the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Youngloughen railroad company. Curllis asked $15,000 damages for alleged damage to his property in Torrence avenue, West Side Connellsville.

A verdict of $176.44 for the plaintiff was awarded yesterday in the suit of Cooper & Freed against Mr. and Mrs. Louis Costa of Dickerson Run by a jury in Common Pleas Court No. 2. Cooper & Freed asked $313.89 and interest for work alleged to have been done for the Costas.

DOUBLE FARE ILLEGAL

Public Service Commission Orders
Refund to Pittsburghers.

In a decision handed down yesterday by the Public Service Commission the Pittsburgh Railways company's night fare of 10 cents was ordered abolished and a refund was ordered to all patrons who held excess fare slips ordered issued by the commission pending the making of its decision.

The grounds upon which the decision was rendered are the secrecy practised by the company and the methods used in establishing the fare. The company is declared to have violated both the spirit and the letter of the law.

Outside Interests Announce

That Financing is Arranged.

BIG MEETING CALLED TONIGHT

President Robert Lock and Director
W. E. Moore Will Tell Stockholders
All That Remains is for Connellsville
Business Men to Make Good.

The United States Electric Steel Company is assured for Connellsville if the business men make good their own proposition. This announcement was made today by officers of the company. President Robert Lock and Director W. E. Moore, who have promoted the enterprise, will be in town tonight to attend a meeting of stockholders which has been called. They will make a formal announcement of the fact that every pledge they have made to Connellsville has now been carried out, and that all that remains is for Connellsville to do her part.

Those interested in the venture said today that Connellsville business men are still $7,000 short of the amount they have endeavored to raise in order to bring the big electric steel enterprise to Connellsville. Upon the raising of this sum, steps will immediately be taken to begin the actual construction of the plant.

At the meeting tonight Mr. Lock and Mr. Moore will explain in detail just what has been accomplished—and it has been a great deal. So far as these men are concerned, they have made good. The money they agreed to invest is now available, and will be paid in pro rata with the Connellsville subscriptions.

The promise is made that Connellsville will have the largest electric steel producing plant in the country when the United States Electric Steel Company builds its plant. A committee of business men is engaged making a further canvass today in the hope that by the time the stockholders meet tonight it may be announced that every cent pledged by this community toward the enterprise has been subscribed.

"The electric steel proposition is right up to Connellsville today," one of the business men interested said. "Mr. Lock and Mr. Moore have more than made good every promise. So far as they are concerned, their financial arrangements have been concluded. Connellsville must raise $7,000 in addition to that already subscribed. If the town is to go forward it must have new industries, and this appears to us to be the greatest opportunity afforded the community in recent years."

no pedestrians could unknowingly get close to the home. The board is taking every known precaution to

Keeps Her Children In Perfect Health

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin
the Family Laxative for Many Years.

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld of Carlisle, Pa., recently wrote to Dr. Caldwell, at Monticello, Ill., that she had used Dr.
Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in her home for a number of years, and would not be without it, as with it she has been able to keep her four children in perfect health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of similar laxative herbs
with pepsin that acts on the bowels
in an easy, natural way, and regulates the action of this most important function. Nearly all the sickness to which children are subject is traceable to bowel inaction, and a mild, dependable laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should have a place in every family medicine chest.
It is pleasant to the taste and children like it, and take it readily, while it is equally effective for adults.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you

Safe Home Remedy for Skin-Troubles

Scabies, ringworm, and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however,
that you need never hesitate to use, even
on a baby's tender
skin—that is the re-sinal treatment. Resinol is the prescription
of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinal ointment and resinal soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for over twenty years.

Generally resinal stops itching at once, and heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinal ointment and resinal soap can be bought at any drugstore.

Resinal Soap is not only unusually cleansing and softening, but its regular use gives to the skin and hair that natural beauty of perfect health which cosmetics can only imitate.

COKE MARKET SCORES A SHARP ADVANCE; SPOT SELLING AT $3.25 ON LARGE DEMAND

Limited Offerings, Short
Labor, Coal Prices
Big Factors.

FIRST HALF INQUIRIES NOW OUT

By-Product Oven Menace Has Lost Its Terrors, as Additional Ovens Will Make Coal Situation More Acute.
Pig Iron Market Advances Excitedly

Special to The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURG, Sept. 27.—Instead of merely stiffening, as the coke market had done for several weeks, it scored a definite and sharp advance in the past week. On Saturday spot furnace coke jumped to $3.25, and sales were made at that figure Saturday and each day thus far this week. There is a larger demand for spot furnace coke on the part of consumers, but the strength of the market is due chiefly to the limited offerings, due to labor shortage and the heavy demand
for coal.

The contract market for the first half of next year, which had been a subject of more or less academic interest on the part of consumers, has suddenly opened up with certain consumers showing a keen interest. The inquiry is not general as most of the large consumers are holding off, evidently hoping that there will be an opportunity to come in on weak spots, and the present condition does not represent a weak spot by any means.

One contract has already been closed for the first half, 8,000 to 10,000 tons a month, at $2.90. The contract when closed was regarded as representing rather an exceptional price, as it covered a particularly good grade of coke, but no quotations are now being made at less on any standard coke and some operators are quoting $3.25, on the basis that after the more eager sellers have booked some tonnage the whole market can be established at $3.25 or higher.

Definite inquiry now in the market totals over 40,000 tons a month, for first half, there being inquiry from three interests, one with two furnaces and the others with one each. Several other consumers are tentatively sounding the market, but are showing no particular inclination to put out specific inquiries as they find prices
higher than expected.

While the demand for foundry coke
is not exceptional prices have hardened by 25 cents a ton, partly in sympathy with furnace coke, and the market is now quotable as follows:
Spot furnace $3.25
Contract furnace $2.90
Spot foundry $2.50
Contract foundry $2.50

There is more complaint of labor shortage at coke works than there was even a week ago, and the majority of producers are losing some production in consequence of not having enough men to draw ovens regularly, or through men refusing to make full charges. A more important influence in stiffening coke values, however, is the high prices obtainable for coal.
The coal situation is such that the new by-product ovens, feared for so long, are no menace, for if they came in they would simply make the coal situation more acute. Construction work, however, is proceeding very slowly. One plant, which not long ago was predicted for completion in October, is now not expected before February or March, and another predicted for next month will probably be two or three months late. Construction has been impeded by labor shortage, and when cold weather comes and working conditions get worse the men will seek the indoor jobs that are waiting for them, particularly mining.

The market for Pittsburgh district coal has advanced about 15 cents in the past week or ten days, and is now quotable at $1.65 to $1.75 per net
ton, f. o. b. mine Pittsburgh district.
Still higher prices are sometimes bid.
There is increasing demand from the east, and as high as $2.50 per gross
ton has been bid for Clearfield coal.
On account of the difference in the ton and the difference in the freight this would figure back to $1.88 per net ton, Pittsburgh district.

The pig iron market has grown excited in the past few days, with sharp advances. The buying is not distinctly heavier but buyers and sellers appear to have awakened to the situation
there being distinct possibilities of a shortage in pig iron while buyers could readily afford to pay much higher prices for pig iron rather than curtail their production. Purchases of 20,000 or 30,000 tons of Bessemer iron have shown how limited are the supplies, as $22.00, Valley basis, was paid when a week ago the market was quotable at $21.00 to $21.50 and the minimum quotation is now $22.50.
Haste iron has been bought freely in the past two weeks at $18.00, Valley, and on up to $18.50, while now the minimum quotation is $19.00 and not much tonnage is offered at that figure.
Foundry iron has moved up in sympathy, and the market is now
quotable about as follows, with prospects that even a moderate amount of buying at these figures will result in still higher prices being demanded:
Bessemer $22.50
Haste $18.50
No. 2 foundry $19.00
Mailable $19.00
Gray Castings $18.50

These prices are f. o. b. Valley furnaces, prices delivered Pittsburgh being higher by the 55-cent freight.

Had Illious Attacks.
"My son nineteen years of age suffered frequently from bilious attacks.

Chamberlain's Tablets and began giving them to him. They helped him and picked up right along," writes

Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Kirkville, N. Y.

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

Notwithstanding the continued shortage of labor the Connecticut region operated with greater efficiency last week and production and shipments took on something of a spurt. About 10,000 tons of stock were borrowed from the yards to meet shipping requirements. Both production and shipments moved up above the 400,000 ton line.
Coal shipments rose to 224,000 tons, a gain of 12,000 tons. Including coke the total tonnage movement was 508,000 tons against 505,000 tons of the previous week. Coal car supply averaged only about 40 to 50 which restricted movement of this commodity. Orders were issued withdrawing box cars from the foundry trade in order to make better provision for handling merchandise, for which purpose only 100 car supply is now available. Every day points to an unprecedented car shortage early in the winter.
Spot furnace coke jumped to $3.25 on Saturday and sales are being made at that figure each day this week. Demand is large due largely to their continued limited offerings of coke and the high prices and heavy demand
for coal.

PRICES OF STEEL ARE ADVANCING

Demand Continues Heavy and Buyers Are Taking Beliefs They Would Not Consider Some Time Ago.

Special to The Weekly Courier.
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade progress as follows:

Another advancing movement in steel prices is clearly in progress,
violating the precedent that no advance in steel prices can occur when one movement has ended. Bars, plates and shapes, which advanced $2 a ton last month, are predicted to advance say $3 a ton within the next fortnight, and wire products and sheets seem also scheduled for advances.

The demand for steel is heavy and buyers are taking hold for deliveries
they would not consider two months ago. The railroads are in the market again, and following recent purchases of a moderate number of cars are in the market for a total of at least 20,000, for which they recognize they will have to pay record high prices.
The mills are making no concessions on car material. A large tonnage was closed in Chicago last week on the basis of 2,500, bars, for bars,
2,000 for shapes and 2,000 for plates.
On the 200,000 tons that is to come up next month on the new naval program, however, it is likely that 2,500 will be done on bars and shapes and 2,000 on plates, the government being also given priority of shipment, if necessary. There is 60,000 tons of plates in the market for 800 miles of 6 and 8 inch oil lines for the recently formed Sinclair Oil Company.
Premiums will be paid for the earlier
deliveries of the pipe.

The market for sheets for first quarter or first half delivery has not been opened but the automobile trade is urging the mills to take contracts.
Some jobbers have contracted for galvanized sheets for this year's delivery when the material will not be needed until first quarter.
Steel making pig iron in both the east and the central west is advancing sharply and the market is quite excited. Within a week or ten days Bessemer has advanced $1.50 and haste $1, while at the advanced prices
the offerings are limited. The output of Bessemer is controlled by the Bessemer ores available. Connellsville coke is up 25 cents for prompt or contract.

EUROPE IS STILL HUNGRY FOR STEEL

Demand for Rails, Cars, Locomotives and Other Materials Seems to be Insatiable.

The entente governments continue to come into the market for a variety of round tonnage of different steel products other than for munition purposes, since their requirements of the latter up to July 1 appear to have been quite fully satisfied, or, manufacturers have on the books about all the tonnage of this kind that they can handle for the deliveries specified, says The Daily Iron Trade.
France still is desirous of placing in this country some important new orders for railroad needs, apparently for military operations. That government now is in the market with an inquiry for 35,000 tons of rails additional which has been put out by the official purchasing agents in New York. It has also inquired, as formerly stated, for 3,000 to 5,000 freight cars. Another recent inquiry for France, satisfied only in part, is for 10,000 tons of small angles. This business has been tendered to various mills without much success, and it is understood that very liberal prices
will be paid for it.
Russia is a prospective buyer of additional rails, as well as cars and locomotives. England also is endeavoring to close for some new lots of finished steel of various descriptions.
Both Italy and Canada are interested in placing further rail orders in this country, but they find most manufacturers unable to quote them.

The domestic rail market is quiet.
A recent inquiry from the Ana Arbor called for 3,000 to 4,000 tons for delivery in the latter part of 1917.

THE COST OF LIVING.

The High Cost of Living Continues to be a Matter of Discussion.

No matter how much we discuss the

would make a very fine savings fund.

Long before SENRECO was offered to you we submitted it to hundreds of dentists, requesting that they put it to every good dentifrice, especially as to its cleansing qualities and its remedial action on sore, soft, bleeding gums, in the treatment of Pyorrhea, etc. Submitted the formula and asked them their opinion. They tested Senreco from every angle; some going even so far as to make a chemical analysis—

And They Voted Yes

With practically one accord—said:
"Senreco appeals to me more than any dentifrice I have ever seen." "I cannot say too much for Senreco. It's one of the best I have used." "I can recommend Senreco as the best." "Makes the teeth glisten and is free from injurious ingredients, including purgatives and astringents." "I am informed that dentifrices that give one a new idea of mouth cleanliness, etc." (These quotations are from the dentists' reports. Originals on file at our office.)

1917?

By
EDWIN BALMERCopyright, 1916, by the Chicago Tribune

"Hold your places and watch the river! The range will be battle sight when you first will see anything. Put down the leaf of your sight. When you see them take aim—with the leaf down—and fire slowly!" Houston was going from man to man and looking at the rifles. He had examined Jim's also.

"Watch the river!" Jim was watching the river—that is, he was staring intently out of the slit between his cotton shirt and the window. But instead of seeing out, he seemed to be looking into a close, confined room in which a flame was burning. It was a bluish yellow flame at the end of a pipe, and he knew that the flame was himself, its burning was his life. As the shells burst in the air they blew the flame down and down so that it almost went out; then again the flame straightened and burned yellow till another shell came and blew it almost out again. It followed the flame, quivering, fascinated each time it blew flat. If it blew out he knew he was dead. For many minutes—how long Jim did not know—the hallucination held him; he saw nothing else. Then the flame and the pipe and all was gone, and he knew that he saw boats taking form in the haze over the river. He saw the shells bursting about him; he heard again the gun which had fired from behind N 94, and Houston's fingers fixed the sight of his rifle and Houston's voice commanded him to fire.

He fired as they were firing from the other windows and all up and down the river front—rifles, machine guns, artillery; they all were going. There a boat sank; but, oh, the shells! The gun behind was not firing any more.

"Aim ahead of the boats or at the front of them. Pick out one boat and shoot at that; don't shift from boat to boat." Keep on one and fire slowly, slowly! Sight your rifle. Aim, aim, aim, men; then fire. Aim at the front of the boats!"

They meant the boats were coming on. The shells! They were smothering the guns on this side, they were killing all the rest of the riflemen on both sides of N 94. There couldn't be any question of it, and the boats were coming on. Jim and those few men about him who hadn't been killed yet were the only ones firing at the boats. They were fighting all those boats alone.

"It's bayonets!" Company F could not do that. Though the first boats from the smoke were rushing to the docks before N 94, though the shells fell from towers the river had stopped now that the boats were landing; though they were rushing N 94 with boats; though after a burst of yelling men, Company F could not move to meet them. Company F had held under fire. Window and his sergeants somehow had held his men behind the balcony of the first floor of N 94; above, it had been Houston.

Jim Ashby was the only corporal there; the lieutenant and the sergeant were killed. Corporal Ashby therefore was in command. But he could not even fix bayonets to his own rifle. He could not rise and start to charge those yelling men below, much less force others to charge. He could stick to his post at the window and he could fire. He had fired that in his mind, or the wooden board had fired it there for him. So he and the rest held their places and fired while the "regulars," who had held the positions on both sides, rushed out with bayonets flashing and drove the yelling, charging men back to the water, then tumbled them into it and shot the others who were climbing up.

Then more boats came. But from the lower river American destroyers dashed up with quick firing guns all booming. The batteries in Brooklyn turned upon them. They sank one of the destroyers, now another. A third blew up. But how they had driven through those boats!

The shells! They were bursting ceaselessly, furiously again about N 94. That meant Houston was yelling it—that the attack was beaten back; the regent's men were retreating; they were no longer trying to land.

The guns across the river shelled the American positions and the destroyers. They kept up the shelling for half an hour longer in reverence for the check. Then there was a cessation of the fire. Jim Ashby, very weak, but glowing within with the sense of heroic achievement, turned about and saw Houston. The wooden-legged man was kneeling beside Swenson and caring for a hurt in Swenson's head.

"Corporal," he said quietly, "the boys are all safe of it, though, and the general could better have had us two hours less. We must get the boys out from our rifles. Next time we must be out to bayonet!"

CHAPTER XXI.

NOT the next day, nor yet the next, nor the next, was Company F, a band of twenty-two men, now, able to bayonet. N 94, as a building, was gone. N 94 had been a position, a man, a cotton shirt and bayonet back, a man with a rifle, and now the ruins of the warehouse, it was a mass of living trenches which graded the Manhattan river front from the Battery to the Bronx and then over the Hudson and the Harlem, too, as the gun drew his line about the fallen old fort of Manhattan.

It was five days after that first attack, according to Jim's reckoning—the reckoning did not agree with that of Houston, who knew. It was eleven crossed to Manhattan Island near two old lines of Manhattan bridges. The regulars, who had held the line up there, must have been killed, and the American batteries about there either were destroyed or out of ammunition. That was more likely, Jim thought, for if twenty-two men at N 94 couldn't get rifle cartridges except at night when some one crept to the opening of the subway the artillerymen farther away must be having their troubles. Or perhaps more of the guns had burst and killed their crews.

They were bursting pretty often now, Jim knew, but that wasn't strange; they were defective guns—a lot of 200 guns made for the allies during the European war. They hadn't been accepted on account of defects, so they'd been returned, and when this war came the army at grabbed them, for at least they were guns; they would shoot a good many times, maybe, before they burst. Suppose they were going to kill the men who had to fire them! More American men would be killed if the guns weren't fixed. If citizens were going to try to fight infantrymen and artillery without any artillery support at all. Besides, if the Americans used those defective, foreign guns the American factories could supply them with shells right away without having to change a pattern or flip out a machine.

The regent's men were coming on—on toward the ramparts of N 94. The twenty-two men there were becoming trained to holding a position, or Winslow and Houston had convinced them all that if a man tried to run he surely would be shot through the head. So, as the regent's men moved on "N 94" twenty-two rifles fired over the cotton bales.

"Bayonets now, boys! Bayonets!" Stand up and give it to them! They're coming! Give it to them! Oh, stand and give 'em the steel or you'll get it! Now—bayonets! Bayonets!"

The recruits could not all stand to that. Some of them ran and were shot, not by Winslow or Houston, but by the regent's men. Others fell down and tried to hide behind the cotton bales. But when Winslow jumped up on a bale to fight and Houston, stumbling a little because of his wooden leg, stood up also others followed him. Paddy Kilbane, for one, and for another Swenson, the ex-fighter Jim Ashby fought beside him.

Next against Swenson Kilbane was up. He turned low and got a man before one got him. But Swenson was a bit slow. He tried to club his man, but one of the other three. Yet the man opposite Jim was fighting with clubbed musket, and Jim could not reach him. Instead, Jim went down quite helpless, but not quite unconscious, and felt other men falling upon him. They did not move because they were dead, and as he did not move the enemy considered him dead also. They went over him and past him about business which they had got to do farther on. So Jim, utterly spent and powerless, rested. Every one about him was dead. Finally he fell asleep

When he awoke Jim gazed on the faces of the dead about him. Paddy Kilbane, the Irish boy who had been a shipping clerk till a couple of weeks ago and who had been picked to try out in the infield with the Cubs, had been thrust through the heart. The bayonet had pushed from his pocket a scrap of lace, all crimson now. Jim recalled it—the handkerchief Paddy had found in the seat of the train which had belonged to one of the boys that before which he had been

So Paddy had kept it, the garden from his unknown lady for whom he had fought. Well, the Irish boy's gallineries were over. He was very bold and handsome, as the star shell showed him. There seemed almost a grin on his lips. He lay as he would have liked to lie if one of those blushing little fellows who came to the camp in Chicago should come to see him now. Swedy Swenson, who had carried his rifle like a mop, was bayoneted through and through. He was not at all near now. Swedy would not like that. Swedy had written a letter a few days before. Jim found it and put it in his pocket. Winslow was dead, too. So was Houston—every man of the company except Jim, who had faced that charge. The others were dead, too—those who could not face it. He took a rifle and was firing at about dead men's belts and bandoliers for cartridges when he heard some one approaching. He crouched very still and waited. A star shell blazed and showed him a girl's slight figure bending over the bodies at the other end of N 94. Jim watched her fazedly, amazed. She was alone. Besides himself she was the only living thing in the light of the star shell. Its light burned out, but the girl continued her search in the darkness. She worked slowly in Jim's direction, examining each shell form. Jim waited for another star shell to show her to him again; she was quite close now. She was a girl of twenty-two or twenty-three, he guessed, with clear cut features. She wore shirt waist and plain skirt and she was without hat. She looked like an American girl. That definition included, Jim realized, Marion Marlatz as well as Agnes. She might be of the other side, but Jim believed she was not. She had come to Winslow's body now and was turning it over.

IS NO DANGER OF OVER-PRODUCTION OF COAL AND COKE

So Long as Labor Conditions Continue as They are at Present.

SUPPLY NOT MORE PLENTIFUL

Not the Industry of Men Any Greater Than During the Summer Months; Have Acquired an Indifference to Making Full Time That is Confirmed

As the season of greater coal consumption approaches, the question of labor supply at mines not only in Western Pennsylvania, but in all mining regions, is again taken up. During the past year there has been no time when the mine have had a surplus of men and only in rare instances have they had a small number to fully man the operations. Generally speaking, however, the Chalmers coal region has been better than many other mining regions. There have been a higher rate of wages prevailing than ever before paid in the coal industry anywhere in the world. Working conditions are better and a man's earnings have been limited only by his ability and industry. Knowledge of these facts has drawn a large number of new men to the region during the past year. It is true that many workmen have left the mine and gone into other occupations, such as road construction and other outside employment, but their places have in most instances been filled by recruits from outside the region.

In comparison with the country at large the coal region and the mining industry of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, have found the shortage of men to be a chronic condition. The cutting off of emigration from Europe has prevented addition from this source of supply and the native supply has everywhere been insufficient to the demand or at least has made it impossible for a reserve force to be accumulated. An average mining and coke region, in order to run to full capacity every day, must have available a force of men in excess of the plant's actual needs. A certain proportion is always to be counted upon as not reporting for work from day to day on account of sickness, accidents, indisposition and other causes. The handicap upon the plants now and for months past has been that this proportion of reserve labor force has been so small that more frequently than otherwise there have been no extra men on the job at all.

To supply the deficiency mining companies have everywhere made extraordinary efforts to secure and hold men. Various labor centers have been organized repeatedly and the inducements of free transportation for the men and families have been freely offered. Gradually a force of men has been accumulated but nowhere, not excepting the Connellsville region, has it become more than barely adequate to keeping up an average production.

This condition would not of itself act as a handicap to plant operation. Men are fully aware of the unusual demand for their labor and have become quite independent. As an experienced mine foreman expressed it, "Their heads are turned." On the slightest pretext, and often without any at all, they will throw up their jobs and move from mine to mine without staying very long in any place. Comparatively few of them are disposed to take full advantage of the opportunities to make larger earnings than have ever before been possible in coal mining or coke making. Instead of sticking close to their job from day to day, a large proportion of the men are content to make put time by leaving off whenever it suits their fancy to do so. The mine foreman, and yard bosses are utterly powerless to remedy this condition. If men are reproved for lack of industry they pick up their tools and leave, well knowing that they can get a job at a neighboring plant simply for the asking.

It is natural to expect that during the summer months there would be less inclination to make full time and the managers indulged the hope that the cooler days of early fall would bring about a change in habits of their employees. This has not been the case, however, as there seems to be just as much disposition to visit around among friends and take holidays in other ways as there was in midsummer. An even more serious handicap to the laborer engaged by contractors and others is experienced, and in normal times would have been compounded by the fact that for this season there has been no movement in that direction. It will probably not take place until winter weather sets in to prevent and outside work is suspended until spring.

During the past week contractors engaged on work in Fayette county, in an effort to secure more men in order to push their work along before the cold weather sets in, have offered $2.75 and $3.00 per day for laborers. In one instance $5.15 has been offered. The prevailing rate for labor on outside work have been $2.00 to $2.50. While the extraordinary rate may attract some men to these temporary jobs it is not expected that many will be drawn away from the mines and coke works where they get work every day, winter and summer. At the same time some plant forces will doubtless feel the effect of this high bidding for men.

Under these circumstances plant managers are finding it usually impossible to make any headway in speeding up mine output. It is a knowledge of the circumstances which have prevailed during the year that led James E. Roushick, Chief of the Department of Mines to remark in an address a few days ago that the output of the mines in Pennsylvania will be lower this year than for many years past. It is this condition that will assure us against the Connellsville region, and in fact all mining regions, against over-production, and protect the market from any considerable recession in price, at least as long as the present rate of demand for coal and coke continues.

Your Car's Life Fluid

Impoverished blood soon puts a man out-of-the-running. Impoverished gasoline will do the same thing to a motor. Good gasoline has got to be more than something that flows through a brass screen, smells and costs money. Now, perhaps more than ever before, motorists must beware of mongrel fuels. Despite market conditions, the uniform boiling-point that made Atlantic Gasoline famous is steadfastly maintained. We couldn't afford to alter that, even if we would. Buy Atlantic by name.

ONE YEAR AGO THE 3400 r.p.m. CHALMERS CAME INTO BEING; NOW 50,000,000 HAPPY MILES LIE BEHIND IT

Just one year ago the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers was born.

September 30th is its Anniversary Day.

It was untried, unknown, looked a little strange because it was different, and nobody outside of four men knew what it could do.

These four men—the men who had dreamed the car—had little to say.

"What will it do?" they were asked.

"Get in and try," they replied.

And in three days' time every last Chalmers executive had experienced a thrill that was new behind the wheel.

They banged it around in city traffic, abused it on hills, ran it through broken fields, made it take hurdles they would never ask their own personal cars to take.

They were amazed and then they sat down and decided to build three times as many of these cars as they had ever built of any model in a single year before—$22,000,000 worth.

Then behold the situation. Six months later these 18,000 cars were all built. Then 10,000 more were ordered.

And a few days ago we got word that 20,000 more are being built—48,000 of these 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

48,000 in all—a $56,000,000 business in a single model!

So you see why we are proud to have a birthday party for the car.

Any car that has 50,000,000 happy miles of use behind it certainly has an interesting history and its birthday anniversary is an event.

Remember this is only its first birthday. So successful has the car proven that the Chalmers Company is continuing to build it right through into next year. So you're safe in getting a car now that won't be obsolete in the spring.

Consider the price, $1096 Detroit.

Come in today. Attend the birthday party.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Sept. 29.—Insanity in Ireland has lately shown a decrease, chiefly among women. This is something new as Ireland's statistics for insanity have always been unusually high. BELGIAN EDITORS STILL PUBLISHING PATRIOTIC SHEETS

Many Secret Newspapers Brought Out in Mysterious Way.

DEFY THE GERMAN CENSORSHIP

"Free Belgium," Best of Publications continues to appear in spite of Punishment or Supposed Editors. The Germans are Always Blundering.

By Associated Press

HAVRE, France, Sept. 29.—The Belgian government authorities here have received information of the continued appearance of patriotic newspapers at Brussels and throughout Belgium in defiance of the German censorship and despite all the efforts of the German military police. It is one of the mysteries of the German occupation of Belgium how the censored papers can be published where they escape their censorious hands. The Germans are always blundering and how they try to suppress the press.

There is a price of 60,000 francs on the head of the editor of the "Free Belgium" but it keeps on appearing just the same. Several of the suppressed editors are said to have been shot. One man was sentenced to twelve years hard labor others to three and eleven years and a woman Madame Schumpens to five years. But each time that a supposed editor is imprisoned and the German authorities feel the trouble, the paper appears the following day more lusty than ever with a cartoon making fun of the prosecution.

A file is kept here of these secret papers as a matter of curiosity. "Free Belgium" which has given the most trouble prints the following notices under its title:

A bulletin of patriotism abounding in no censorship whatever. Price per copy from zero to infinity.

This news office. Not being a lady, we have no established address. We are situated in a movable automobile.

Advertements. Business being all under German domination we have suppressed our advertising page, and come out our patrons to keep their minds off their noses.

Telephone calls. Care of German Commanders at Brussels.

Visiting in Belgium. I have been in Belgium for some time. I have seen the women and children in a very poor state. I have seen the face of the people. I have seen the face of the people. I have seen the face of the people.

shown in a standing line carried to the head of its editorial referring to the Germans as barbarians and not friends. A recent number showed the Germans as "villains" by way of the "villains" with the bodies of German soldiers slaughtered by the Belgians during the war.

Even a secret press bureau has been set up at Brussels which issues typewritten sheet containing facts about the German press. The bureau of Paris and London. The editing is well done showing that there must be capable men to gather the material and put it in shape. The sheets mechanically are even better than those issued by Paris and London. They show a large and first class duplicating process somewhere beyond the power of the Germans to discover.

The Belgian officials themselves do not know how this work is done and it is simply incomprehensible how all this editing, publishing, printing, circulating, getting the requisite white paper and ink, drawing, cartoons, engraving and lithographing and all the humdrum details of getting out newspapers, weeklies, books, and press service in a complicated network with the German police, maintaining every nerve and offing pressure on the heads of editors. It takes courage and ingenuity to do it all in Belgium under these conditions.
